FROM THE PRESIDENT

Good morning to my fabulous Sunrisers. Hope you didn't miss me too much last week! I am back after a week long birthday celebration.

This week my focus is on friendships and I think we are a unique club because we genuinely like each other. We are all very different, but we come together and make a mighty fine team.

As Rotarians I think we do really well to make our club a welcoming one! Keep up the great work friends have a great week. Keep the fun coming.

Bec

President

BEC'S WEEKLY SHOUTOUT

Shout out!

Quote

No matter what happens in life, be good to people.

Being good to people is a wonderful legacy to leave behind.

Shout out to Marty Margo Narellan president ran into him in a tiny arcade in Melbourne what's the chances! Rotary friends?

The combined Macarthur District Quota Clubs are holding a Fund Raiser Dinner Dance to raise funds for the New Campbelltown Shepherd Centre.

The Shepherd Centre is for the support of deaf children. It will be on the 1st Sep at West's League Club. More details call:

A copy of the flier will be sent separately.

LAST WEEK

It was a quiet week last week. No Guest Speaker and no President but quite an enjoyable morning none the less.

Barb read us the latest message from our Tanzania student, Pascal Nico, from the School of St Jude. Pascal has completed his National Service and has been accepted into university to study medicine. We hope he will keep in touch.

Police Officer of the Year is coming up and will be Wednesday the 8th of August. See the GREEN BOOK for details. Cost will be $45 each.

The raffle went off again with the Joker avoiding draw but it is getting closer. Sophie did the pulling out.

We also received an update on the polio situation. It is close to extinction. Whilst it will soon (we hope) be gone as a disease, it will remain a memory for quite some time since we now have Post Polio Syndrome which is a condition that affects those who had polio and survived. It will be many years until this has left us.

A BIT ABOUT ROTARY

The Rotary Club is the basic unit of Rotary activity, and each club determines its own membership. Clubs originally were limited to a single club per city, municipality, or town, but Rotary International has encouraged the formation of one or more additional clubs in the largest cities when practical. Most clubs meet weekly, usually at a mealtime on a weekday in a regular location, when Rotarians can discuss club business and hear from guest speakers.

Each club elects its own president and officers among its active members for a one-year term. The clubs enjoy considerable autonomy within the framework of the standard constitution and the constitution and bylaws of Rotary International. The governing body of the club is the Club Board, consisting of the Club President (who serves as the Board chairman), a President-Elect, club Secretary, club Treasurer, and several Club Board Directors. The President usually appoints the Directors to serve as chairs of the major club committees, including those responsible for club service, vocational service, community service, youth service, and international service.

Rotarians may attend any Rotary club around the world at one of their weekly meetings. These are often referred to as Make-Ups, when a member was not able to be at their regular meeting. If they do then they need to notify the Secretary so that the attendance records are up to date.

The object of Rotary is to encourage and foster the ideal of service as a basis of worthy enterprise.

This objective is set against the "Rotary 4-Way Test", used to see if a planned action is compatible with the Rotarian spirit. The test was developed by Rotarian and entrepreneur Herbert J. Taylor during the Great Depression as a set of guidelines for restoring faltering businesses and was adopted as the standard of ethics by Rotary in 1942. It is still seen as a standard for ethics in business management. The 4-Way Test considers the following questions in respect to thinking, saying or doing:

- Is it the truth?
- Is it fair to all concerned?
- Will it build goodwill and better friendships?
- Will it be beneficial to all concerned?

UPPING MEMBERSHIP

Can you think of someone that could become a member? If you can then bring them to a meeting and let us encourage them to become one of us.
